A Prayer to the Blessed Virgin Mary

(to be said every day during the month of May)

O most August and Blessed Virgin Mary! Holy Mother of God! Glorious Queen of Heaven and earth! Powerful protectress of those who love thee, and unailing advocate of all who invoke thee! Look down, I beseech thee, from thy throne of glory, on thy devoted child, accept the solemn offering I present thee of this month, specially dedicated to thee, and receive my ardent, humble desire that, by my love and fervor, I may worthily honor thee, who, next to God, art deserving of all honor. Receive me, O Mother of mercy, among thy best-beloved children, extend to me thy maternal tenderness and solitude, obtain for me a place in the Heart of Jesus, and a special share in the gifts of His grace. O deign, I beseech thee, to recognize my claims on thy protection, to watch over my spiritual and temporal interests, as well as those of all who are dear to me, to infuse into my soul the Spirit of Christ, and to teach me thyself to become meek, humble, charitable, patient and submissive to the Will of God. May my heart burn with the Love of thy Divine Son, and of thee, His Blessed Mother, not for a month alone, but for the promotion of His honor, and thine, and contribute as far as I can to its extension unto Eternity.

Receive me, O Mary, Refuge of sinners! Grant me a Mother's blessing and a Mother's care, now, and at the hour of my death. Amen.

St. Joseph the Worker

What we know about the life of Saint Joseph is contained in the gospels of Saint Matthew and Saint Luke. He has become known as the "Just man". The name foster-father of Our Lord appears in local martyrologies of the ninth and tenth centuries. The first church dedicated in his honor was in 1129 in Bologna. Pope Sixtus IV(1471-84) added the feast of Saint Joseph to the Roman Calendar. Pope Pius IX placed the whole Church under the Patronage of Saint Joseph in 1870. In 1989, Pope John Paul II reflected deeply on the life and witness of Saint Joseph in Redemptoris Custos. "Guardian of the Redeemer" (q.v).

Among the saints known to have had particular devotions to Saint Joseph are Saint Bernard, Saint Thomas Aquinas, Saint Gertrude, Saint Bridget of Sweden, Saint Alphonsus and Saint Teresa of Avila. As the Bible tells us, Saint Joseph was descended from the royal house of David. A village carpenter of Nazareth, he was chosen among all men to be the husband and protector of the Virgin Mother of Jesus Christ. To his loving care was entrusted the childhood and youth of the Redeemer of the world. He reveals to us the perfect model of Christianity through his purity of heart, patience, and fortitude.

Poor in worldly possessions, he was rich in grace. Devotion to Saint Joseph, was fervent in the East from the early ages, and has spread and increased. Today, Catholics of all nations honor him.

There are many stories about the miraculous intervention of Saint Joseph. One is a medieval account of how a famine in Sicily was ended after a Novena to Saint Joseph. A more recent story is of the mysterious "itinerant carpenter" who volunteered to build an architecturally unique spiral staircase in a convent chapel in Santa Fe, New Mexico, which is as sound today as when it was first built, and has never needed repair.

According to ancient tradition, Saint Joseph watches over and protects the Church. He is considered the model of perfect Christian life and the patron of a happy death. His patronage extends over the Mystical Body of Christ, over the Christian family and schools, carpenters, fathers, laborers, and all individuals who appeal to his charity and intercession, especially in the hour of death. Joseph, when dying, received the loving ministry of his foster Son, Jesus, and his spouse, the Blessed Virgin Mary, so it is believed that his intercession may well obtain the mercy of God and the grace of a peaceful and holy death.

His feast is celebrated on March 19, and a special memorial to Saint Joseph the Worker is observed on May 1.

Daily Prayer to St. Joseph, the Worker

Glorious Saint Joseph, pattern of all who are devoted to toil, obtain for me the grace:

To work in the spirit of penance, in order thereby to atone for my many sins;

To work conscientiously, putting devotion to duty before my own inclinations;

To work with thankfulness and joy, deeming it an honor to employ and to develop, my labor, the gifts I have received from Almighty God;

To work with order, peace, moderation, and patience, without ever shrinking from weariness and difficulties;

To work, above all, with a pure intention and with a spirit of detachment from self, having always before my eyes the hour of death and the accounting which I must then render of time ill-spent, of talents unemployed, of good undone, and of my empty pride in success, which is so fatal to the work of God.

All for Jesus, all through Mary, all in the intention of Thee, O Blessed Joseph! This shall be my motto in life and in death. Amen.

St. Joseph's Cathedral

The history of St. Joseph's Cathedral, the Diocese of Sioux Falls, and the state of South Dakota are truly intertwined. The story, of course, really begins when Catholic missionary priests journeyed into what would become the Dakota Territory. The first of these was Father Pierre Jean De Smet, who began ministering in the region in 1838.

From those beginnings, the Catholic faith spread among the Native Americans and early settlers of the Plains. Our Lady of the Holy Rosary, a small log structure built in Bruyer's Settlement four miles east of Vermillion, is generally recognized as the first Catholic Church established in what would become the Diocese of Sioux Falls.

In March of 1861, legislation was signed creating the Dakota Territory. The Homestead Act, signed a few days later, began to attract settlers to the area. In time, Yankton became the territorial capital. And it was Yankton that Bishop Martin Marty, designated vicar apostolic of the Dakota Territories in August 1879, chose as his Episcopal home.

Sacred Heart Parish in Yankton became the Bishop's first Pro-Cathedral Church. In 1883, however, the territorial capital had been moved to Bismarck, ND and by 1889 Sioux Falls had grown dramatically. In February of that year, Bishop Marty relocated to Sioux Falls.

The first parish in Sioux Falls was St. Michael's. The wood structure that was the original parish home burned in 1881. The church rebuilt, and dedicated a more substantial brick structure located on the corner of 5th and Duluth in 1883. This became Bishop Marty's new Pro-Cathedral Church when he came in 1889. In September Pope Leo XIII established the Diocese of Sioux Falls encompassing all of SD, in November of the same year, South Dakota officially became the 40th state.

A new bishop

When Bishop Thomas O'Gorman succeeded Bishop Marty in 1896, he inherited a diocese that included the entire state of South Dakota. Due to the logistical difficulties presented by the necessity of administering this large an area, much of which could only be reached by stagecoach or wagon, Bishop O'Gorman recommended that the diocese be divided. The pope agreed, and the Diocese of Lead was created in 1902.

As the Catholic Church continued to grow in South Dakota, several parishes replaced their initial wooden churches with more impressive structures. Bishop O'Gorman began to dream of a fitting structure to serve as a true cathedral for the Diocese of Sioux Falls. Bishop O'Gorman was a lifelong friend of Archbishop John Ireland of St. Paul, MN. In 1915, Bishop O'Gorman participated in the dedication of the new cathedral in St. Paul. That experience strengthened his conviction that the time was right for a cathedral in Sioux Falls. Bishop O'Gorman conferred with Emmanuel Masqueray, the French architect who designed the St. Paul Cathedral and served as the chief designer for the building of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis. Incorporating Bishop O'Gorman's suggestions, Masqueray created a majestic and uniquely beautiful design for St. Joseph's Cathedral. Building a cathedral was a great undertaking for a diocese that was largely rural and had roughly half as many parishioners as there are today. But support for The Cathedral was strong, so with vision and faith the diocese tackled the construction of a Mother Church. It was determined that the best possible site for the new Cathedral was the spot occupied by St. Michael's church. So, the brick church was moved, the parish house razed, and construction got underway in the summer of 1915.

The construction process was not without its obstacles. Masqueray passed away in May of 1917. Fortunately, Edwin Lundie of St. Paul, one of Masqueray's chief assistants, was secured to complete the project. Lundie, who had previously lived in South Dakota, was able to bring the work to a successful conclusion.

Progress was also hindered somewhat by the start of World War I. The resulting shortage of skilled workers and materials was also a likely contributor to a final cost—$390,000—that was considerably higher than the original bid of $275,000.

Nevertheless, the majestic cathedral was completed and dedicated on May 7, 1919. The first Mass had, in fact, already been celebrated in the unfinished cathedral on December 8, 1918.

A beacon of hope For almost 90 years, The Cathedral has served as a beacon of hope for both a community and a Diocese. As both a parish church and the Mother Church of the Diocese, The Cathedral has served as an active hub of community ministry as well as a source of authoritative teaching and governance for all diocesan parishes.

Seven bishops have occupied the cathedra, the bishop's chair, at the Cathedral in that time. And there have been a number of significant changes and additions to the original building. The most notable are:

1935 - Kilgen pipe organ, donated by Monsignor Mulloney, installed in the choir loft

1942 - A fire in the lower church causes serious damage to the entire building

1943 - Full-color painting of interior by Conrad Schmitt Studios

1946 - Current marble high Altar and tester are erected

1947 - French stenciled stained glass windows replace original frosted glass windows

1950s-60s - Painted iconography is covered in sanctuary

1961-62 - Towers repaired, tuck pointing, roof work

1970-74 - Interior restoration and repainting; Freestanding altar installed ; Sanctuary renovated

1996 - Tuck pointing, replacement of damaged stone, tower repair

2004 - Chapel of the Sacred Heart constructed within old sacristy
Basement renovated into parish hall, handicap accessible entrances and elevator installed and parish offices moved to the old Cathedral High School - now the Chancery Offices.

Faith is what built The Cathedral. Those pioneers who had a vision for what could be, sacrificed much to construct a worthy home for the cathedra—the bishop's chair. The Cathedral Restoration is intended to ensure that The Cathedral not only receives the care necessary to preserve this gift entrusted to future generations, but also the attention it deserves in order to bring out the full beauty of this unique and magnificent treasure.
